The Digital Humanities Summer Institute provides an ideal environment for discussing and learning about new computing technologies and how they are influencing teaching, research, dissemination, creation, and preservation in different disciplines, via a community-based approach.

A time of intensive coursework, seminars, and lectures, participants at DHSI share ideas and methods, and develop expertise in using advanced technologies. Every summer, the institute brings together faculty, staff, and students from the Arts, Humanities, Library, and Archives communities as well as independent scholars and participants from areas beyond.

Announcements

DHSI 2017 -> DHSI 2018!

What a fabulous time together! Thanks to the ~875 DHers, and the 300 or so from our pals at SHARP's annual conference, who joined us and made DHSI 2017 the wonderful, engaging time it was! We're also super-grateful to our friends at the Boundaries and Ties gathering, who allowed us to join in the \m/ fun.

... and if, like us, you're already thinking of next year, take a peek at our DHSI 2018 offerings as we update the website -- with some excellent new courses to add to the mix!

The University of Virginia, as a sponsoring institution of DHSI, provides 5 tuition-free fellowships to attend a Digital Humanities Summer Institute course or workshop during the summer of 2019.

Students, staff, non-TT faculty, and those without access to research travel funds are especially encouraged to apply.

The fellowships entirely cover the cost of course tuition for one course, using a code at the time of registration (rather than reimbursement afterward). These fellowships do not cover travel (to Victoria, B.C.), meals, or lodging, so applicants should be prepared to fund these out of pocket or by locating additional funding sources on your own.

Visit dhsi.org for descriptions of the available courses. Applications are due ASAP. Selection, organized by the Scholars' Lab, will begin on December 10th and continue on a rolling basis.

To apply, please email dhsi-fellowships@virginia.edu with the following:

1. UVA affiliation & status (e.g. 3rd year PhD in art history; staff job title in Library/department);
2. Availability for June 3-7 (courses), June 10-14 (courses), and/or June 8-9 (workshops)
3. The course/workshop you'd like to take (and 1-2 other courses of interest, in case a course cap is reached)
4. A short, specific statement (300-500 words) about your background, professional/academic interests, and why you would like to attend DHSI
5. Whether you've identified funding (personal or from another funding source) to cover travel, lodging, and meal costs.
